Dear Sally,

Thank you so much for your generous donation of fantastic books to Access Books. This donation is greatly needed to assist underserved school libraries in the greater Los Angeles area.

We will use this donation towards assisting schools during our Spring 2005 and Fall 2005 calendar. The schools we serve have at least 90% of their population receiving Title 1 funding, with most students living at or below the poverty line. Since school library funding in California is the lowest in the nation, the school libraries are dismal. Most have more students than books and the books are old and outdated, with the average year of publication in the 1960's. The students at these schools have little, if any, access to books in their home or community libraries. A new, well-stocked library will make a huge difference in the lives of the students and teachers. Not only will the books assist in academic achievement, they will help children discover the joy of reading.

To date, we have provided over 832,000 books to schools in the greater Los Angeles area. We could not do it without support from donors like you.

Once again, thanks.

Sincerely,

Rebecca Constantino, Ph.D.
